

CONTENTS

FOREWORD .....	vii
PREFACE .....	ix
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS .....	xi
INTRODUCTION.....	1
I. GAME AS A SPORTSMAN’S RESPONSIBILITY, 1912–28
1. A New State, a New Game Code, and a New Game and Fish Department.....	6
2. Arizona’s First Conservation Priority: Protecting Beneficial Birds.....	23
3. State Refuges Are the First Step to Game Recovery .....	39
4. The Quest for Hatcheries and Better Fishing.....	50
5. Game Birds and Game Farms .....	56
6. Fighting Animal Enemies Becomes a Federal Responsibility .....	62
7. The Kaibab Deer Controversy.....	82
8. Arizona’s Elk Restoration .....	103
II. A ROUGH ROAD TO RECOVERY, 1929–39
9. The Arizona Game Protective Association Gets Its Act Together.....	112
10. Tough Times for a Fledgling Arizona Game and Fish Commission .....	120
11. More Hatcheries and Better Fishing.....	131
12. The Game Department Takes Up Buffalo Ranching.....	143
13. The Forest Service and Game Department Vie for Management Authority Over Big Game .....	154
14. Cleaning Up the Varmints .....	172
15. Jack O’Connor and the Antelope Crisis on Anderson Mesa .....	184
16. Early Wildlife Studies with the University of Arizona and Its Cooperators.....	195
III. WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT COMES OF AGE, 1939–53
17. Lean Years for the Arizona Game Protective Association .....	204
18. Congress Comes to the Rescue .....	213
19. Toward a More Professional Game and Fish Department .....	221
20. Federal Wildlife Refuges in Arizona .....	235
21. Fish Management Expands in Intensity .....	253
22. Arizona’s Deer Translocations .....	271
23. Area Investigations .....	288
24. Arizona’s Dryland Mountain Lion Hunters.....	297
25. Federal and State Conflicts over Big Game Numbers—Round Two .....	308

IV. WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT’S HAPPY TIMES, 1954–62

26. New Approaches to Managing Big and Small Game..... 324
27. The Heyday of the Arizona Game Protective Association..... 335
28. Water for Wildlife..... 348
29. The Deer Irruption of 1956–62 ..... 359
30. The Reorganization of 1960 and the Wildlife Manager Concept ..... 366
31. Pop Arrington’s Lakes Program ..... 375
32. Formation of the Arizona Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit..... 387
33. The Arizona Game and Fish Department Becomes a Land Management Agency..... 393

V. ARIZONA IN 1962: WILDLIFE AND LANDSCAPE SUMMARY

34. Status of Wildlife Species in 1962 ..... 402
35. Land Tenure and Land Uses Impacting Wildlife ..... 410

APPENDICES

A. State Game Wardens and Arizona Game
and Fish Department Directors, 1913–62 ..... 432
B. Progression of Arizona Game and Fish Commissioners, 1929–62 ..... 434
C. AGPA Presidents and Annual Convention Sites, 1923–62 ..... 435
D. Game Information
Table D-1: Hunting and Fishing Licenses Sold, 1915–62 ..... 437
Table D-2: Hunting Licenses Sold, Deer Harvested, and Mountain Lions and Wolves Reported Taken by PARC, 1915–62 ..... 438
Table D-3: Compendium of Wildlife Harvests, 1927–62..... 440
E. Fish Information
Table E-1: Fish Introductions in Arizona, 1878–1962 ..... 441
Timeline: Changing Abundance of Arizona’s Fishes Through 1962..... 442

REFERENCES CITED AND CONSULTED..... 443

INDEX..... 465

Not printed: A supplemental document containing laws related to wildlife in Arizona from statehood in 1912 through 1962 is available on the Arizona Game and Fish Department’s website, www.azgfd.gov. Search for the “Bringing Back the Game: State Fish and Game Laws, 1912–1962” document.